WORKS CLEVER RUSE TO GET MORPHINE

Salem Man Comes Here and Buys Large Supply of Dope on Forged Physician's Order.

LEAVES HERE FOR NEW ALBANY

Steals Order Blanks From Physician's Office During His Absence—Is Demented at Times.

A clever ruse to get morphine tablets was worked by a Salem man in this city Tuesday when he drove here and produced a forged order, bearing the signature of a prominent Salem physician, at the Central Pharmacy Company, and obtained two hundred morphine tablets. The forged order called for five hundred tablets but the wholesale drug concern was unable to fill the order and agreed to send the remaining three hundred tablets as soon as a shipment arrived which was expected in a few days.

Shortly after the man, who said that he was making the purchase for the Salem physician, left with the morphine tablets and some other medical supplies, which he purchased in order to prevent arousing suspicion at the Central Pharmacy Company, a telephone call was received at the local police station asking that the man be found and held until members of his family could come here after him. The officers immediately started to hunt the man and it was later learned that he had caught an interurban car and gone to New Albany where he forged a

CLASS FREIGHT BY TRACTION REDUCED

State Commission Orders Interurban Company to Apply Rates Charged on Steam Roads.

HOUSEHOLD GOODS AFFECTED

Traction Lines Heretofore Have Discouraged This Business Because of Inability to Handle It.

The Interstate Public Service Company is affected by a ruling made Tuesday by the Indiana Public Service Commission ordering all traction lines in the state to cease applying higher class freight rates between different points in Indiana than are being charged by the steam roads. Recently the interurban companies were authorized by the commission to charge slightly higher rates than the steam roads for certain classes of bulky freight, such as household goods. At that time it was explained that the interurban companies because of limited freight equipment were unable to handle this class of business and that they preferred that it be shipped over the steam lines.

Later the traction companies applied for a modification of the recent order and asked that their rates be established on a parity with the steam roads. Local interurban employees had not been informed today of the change ordered by the commission but the information will likely come to them within a few

REPORT ALLEGES PACKERS MADE EXCESSIVE PROFITS

Federal Trade Commission Would Change Regulations Governing Packers.

By United Press

Washington, September 24.—Disclosure, concerning the packers' war time profits and the attempt to have President Wilson change the food administration regulations under which the packers operated, was made today in a report submitted to the senate by the federal trade commission.

The report which was in response to a resolution making public confidential correspondence which showed that the commission told the president that the packers' profits were "unreasonably high." The commission informed President Wilson in a report dated June 28, 1919, that the packers' war profits were at a rate two and one-quarter to three times to earnings in pre-war years. The commission recommended also that classification of profits on each product and by-products on which higher profits were permissible be wiped out and the entire packer business be placed on a basis that would net eight per cent. profits. Excess profits, it was recommended, should be turned over to the federal treasury. The report was withheld from publication during the war, at the request of President Wilson who feared that it might injure the operation of the food administration.

EIGHT MEN ARE BEATEN BY INDIANA HARBOR MOB

STRIKERS AT GARY AWAKEN TO MOVE

Steel Workers Who Have Left Plants Realize Seriousness of the Step Taken.

PARADES NO LONGER HELD

Union Leaders Send Workers to Homes of Strikers to Keep Up Morale of Families.

By United Press

Gary, Ind., September 24—Strikers in the Calumet steel district for the first time since they walked out, seemed to realize today the seriousness of the business at hand. Gary streets no longer gave the appearance of a festival day, as during the first two days of the strike.

Although streets were crowded almost constantly, there was little of the hilarity that was so noticeable previously. The men are not spending money in the reckless and free fashion which has long been a characteristic of the city's population. They are saving it for the long pull which they believe is ahead.

The average Gary steel worker is "well heeled," according to financial institutions. Bank officials declared that $300 is the average bank account of the steel worker. They say that without outside aid, the average striker should be able to live comfortably until December 1 without working. Union leaders today sent workers to homes of the strikers to keep up the moral of the families.

With the exception of the announcement by forty rollers employed at the American Sheet and Tin Plate factory that they would return to work today with their crews, totalling 800 men, the strike situation was apparently at a standstill. Whether or not the rollers had been able to take back their assistants, was still in doubt early today.

Steel company officials were jubilant over the rollers' action. They declared it was the first break in the ranks of the strikers. The rollers are the highest paid skilled workers in the industry. Those in the tin plate plant have been making from $30 to $60 a day.

These men claimed they remained away from work the first two days of the strike because of fears for their bodily safety. They said they had been threatened by pickets. When city officials promise to safeguard them while going to and coming from the plant, a statement by their leaders said, they agreed to go back.

Company officials declared that a large number of strikers at other mills are out merely because they are afraid to go to work. Union leaders scoff at this. They declared rollers, who have salaries of from $10,000 a year up, are classed with officials and they did not expect them to join the strike.

PRESIDENT'S IDEA

Treaty Would Bring About Industrial Peace.

By United Press

Aboard the President's Train, Sept. 24—Ratification of the peace treaty with its labor provisions will enable men to forget war and begin working towards industrial democracy which will prevent labor classes like the present steel strike, President Wilson declared today. This expresses his attitude not towards the steel strike in particular, but towards labor troubles in general. President Wilson will not act in the steel strike, it is said, until both sides are ready to hold a conference.

Claim 80,000 Workers Out.

known what plan he will follow for raising the money. Jackson county's quota is about $6,000.

The movement is one that is intended to bring relief to the starving thousands in the Old World. In many countries in Europe and Asia, the people have received practically no assistance as they were under the domination of the defeated powers and the allies were not permitted to take food and clothing to them. The population is destitute and havoc has been wrought by disease which resulted from a long period of undernourishment. In some places the death rate has been terrible and conditions are beyond description.

It is to such countries that the Jewish relief organization will extend its hand of assistance. The relief is to be administered without regard to sect or religious denomination. The Jews of the United States, realizing the existing conditions abroad, have effected an organization to alleviate the conditions and have asked the people of the country to contribute for this great charitable endeavor.

similar order and obtained five hundred morphine tablets.

The Salem physician and members of the man's family were here Tuesday afternoon in hopes of finding him. From here they went to New Albany where it was learned, that the man had gone.

According to the story told the police, the man was demented, and is in very poor health. His condition has been such for several weeks past that a certain amount of morphine daily was necessary to keep him alive. He stole the order blanks from the physician's office while the latter was out. Besides the order blanks on the Seymour and New Albany supply houses one is also missing from the physician's office on an Indianapolis wholesale house and it is believed that the man will try to make a purchase there. However, the concern has been notified not to recognize the order.

The man has been paying for all the supplies that he has purchased at the different wholesale houses, and forged checks on his mother to raise the money before leaving Salem, according to the story told the local police. The physician is on his patient's trail and will make every effort to locate him as quickly as possible.

WHY

War on Predatory Animals Must Be Kept Up

Some of the mountains in the Southwest still harbor stock-killing bears—animals capable within a short time of robbing the stockman of his profits. Depredations by mountain lions—killers of sheep, cattle and horses and worst enemy of deer—are still frequent. Coyotes are plentiful, and although they have been killed in large numbers, they still levy a heavy toll. Large sums are annually paid out in bounties on their account, yet year by year they are in many sections an increasing menace to the sheep industry. The high value of their furs during the past several years has encouraged hunters, but the breeding stock left after each fur season is more than sufficient to keep up their numbers. The big gray wolf has been reduced in New Mexico from 400 to less than 25, chiefly through intensive trapping of these animals the last three years by the organized federal and state forces.

No relaxation in the work of destroying predatory animals is justifiable until these preying outlaws are exterminated, says the biological survey of the United States department of agriculture. Organization, up-to-date methods, uninterrupted effort, and high-class personnel are required to exterminate them within a few years. Organized operations must be backed by sufficient hunter forces to meet the situation generally in New Mexico and other parts of the Southwest, and to supervise co-operative work. Intensive work for a few years is manifestly more economical than partial efforts over a longer period.

days or as soon as the official bulletin can be issued from the central office.

The freight business on the Interstate Line between Indianapolis and Louisville is steadily growing and the new order is expected to add further business. Regular freight cars are operated between Indianapolis and Seymour and also between Seymour and Louisville and frequently the traffic is so heavy that trailers are used to carry the surplus amount of freight. An inter-urban freight train of four cars was made up at the local station Tuesday and two additional cars were picked up at Ward's siding, near the curve on South Chestnut street. The six cars proceeded as far as Speeds where two were set off at the cement fills siding. This is one of the longest freight trains that has been made up by the traction company for several years.

The freight business over the traction line between Seymour and Louisville has increased rapidly during the last few weeks as most of the cement used in the construction of the state highways near here is transported from Speeds over the interurban line.

The Interstate Company was recently given authority by the commission to increase its passenger rates to two and three-fourths cents per mile and this increase is expected to go into effect not later than the first of next month.

—The Miller Tread That Is Geared-to-the-Road

MILLER UNIFORM TIRES are the only tires with the famous tread that is Geared-to-the Road. These many caterpillar feet engage the ground like cogs. They give positive traction—full power ahead—and safety. And for a sudden stop they fortify the brakes because they mesh with the road.

Uniform Miller Tires mean mileage certainty. That's because all are built to a championship standard by uniform workmanship. So all are long-distance runners.

Your Mental Picture of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana)

Is it a thoroughly lubricated machine, owned and controlled by one man, who is able to manipulate it as he sees fit with figure-heads to do his bidding by push button control?—

OR—

Is it an organization of men animated by ideals of service, human sympathies, and a far seeing understanding of conditions in a highly specialized branch of industry?

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is owned and controlled by 4649 stockholders, not one holding as much as 10 percent of the total stock.

It is managed by 7 men, who, individually, have won their way to the top by giving each day the kind of service which the public found it profitable to pay for.

The policy of the Company in its relation to the public is laid down by these 7 men, which is to render the individual consumer in the eleven states served by the Company the kind of service they demand and find it profitable to pay for.

It is the earnest desire of these 7 men, holding the trusteeship of management, to intensify the usefulness to the public of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), and to broaden the scope of its service so that the Company may discharge its obligations as a public servant in a manner satisfactory to the stockholders and beneficial to the world at large.

PROCLAMATION

Among the millions who have suffered at the hands of the oppressor during the war, none have been more sorely tried than the Jews. They have been driven desperate by starvation, denied clothing and shelter, and ground between the upper and nether millstone by persecutor at home and the invader from abroad.

The Jew has contributed in a substantial way to the advancement and prosperity of all the nations of the earth, and no people have been more patriotic, more liberty loving. He has fought under the flag of every nation in the name of liberty and justice for mankind. Thousands of Jews gave their lives in the cause for which we fought, and those who remained at home responded with fine patriotism and devotion to every call.

The American Jewish Relief Committee is devoting all of its energy and every dollar of its funds toward relieving misery and distress wherever found, without regard to nationality or religious creed, in the war-ravaged countries of the old world.

Today over 6,000,000 of hapless souls, old men and women and children, are actually starving to death. AND NOTHING CAN SAVE THEM EXCEPT THE GENEROSITY OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE. It seems to me most fitting, therefore, that as Americans and citizens of the great state of Indiana, we should hear the appeal for these down-trodden and stricken people, the first general one they have ever made to the American public, and contribute of our surplus to a fund which will be devoted to their succor.

Therefore, knowing the warm appreciation of justice which abides in the hearts of our people, and the splendid generosity and spirit of brotherly love with which they respond to every call from their less fortunate fellows, I, James P. Goodrich, Governor of the State of Indiana, designate the period FROM MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 29TH, TO SATURDAY, OCTOBER 4TH, AS JEWISH RELIEF WEEK IN THE STATE OF INDIANA. I call upon all the people of our cities, towns and rural communities to organize their forces and get behind this worthy movement with true Hoosier spirit. No state has been more blessed with abundant crops than ours; our merchants and manufacturers and people of all classes have prospered beyond measure, and I am sure that our people will be willing to give of their bountiful store for the relief of suffering humanity. I appeal to the mayors and municipal officials throughout the State to lend their support in making this undertaking a success.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Indiana to be affixed, this 13th day of September, 1919.

By the Governor,
WILLIAM A. ROACH,
Secretary of State.

JAMES P. GOODRICH,
Governor.

THEY ALL DEMAND IT

Seymour, Like Every City and Town in the Union, Receives It.

People with kidney ills want to be cured. When one suffers the tortures of an aching back, relief is eagerly sought for. There are many remedies today that relieve, but do not cure. Doan's Kidney Pills have brought lasting results to thousands. Here is Seymour evidence of their merit.

G. C. Nichter, 25 S. Broadway St., Seymour, says: "I was taken with an attack of lumbago or muscular pain in my sides and in the small of my back that just about laid me up. My back hurt so when I stooped over, I could hardly straighten up. While suffering that way, a friend advised me to take Doan's Kidney Pills, saying that he had taken them, and had found them the best thing he had ever used. I took his advice and Doan's cured me. I have had no trouble with my back since, and I gladly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills for they are fine."

The IMPOSTOR

By FRANK L. PACKARD

"What do you chaps say to that?" Marle bawled out, pointing toward Wallen. "This 'ere cove says he's Wallen, the first mate of the Upolo, the bark you've all read about as bein' picked up by the Phyllis!"

A chorus of derisive jeers, oaths and guffaws greeted the announcement.

Wallen's hand slipped into his coat pocket and closed over his automatic. They were crowding down the room, closing in around him now.

He glanced quickly over his shoulder to locate precisely the position of the rear door, should it come to a row—and instinctively stepped back a pace as a hulking, rawboned fellow, half drunk and carrying his liquor belligerently, lurched forward.

"Hif 'e says that, wot we says is

Big Lot of Hay Fever Jokes

But Kerkucky Man Says—"People Who Belong to Hay Fever Colony are Kidding Themselves."

Wouldn't Be Any Rose or Hay Fever if Simple Home Remedy Was Given a Chance.

"Yes, there's a real NINTY-NINE per cent effective remedy for hay or rose fever," frankly states a druggist in a prosperous Kentucky city.

"But I don't expect anyone to believe me, because the treatment is so easy and the cost not worth mentioning."

"The annual crop of hay-fever jokes would be mighty scarce if people would get an ounce of Mentholized Arcine and by just adding water that has been boiled make a pint of liquid that will prove a real help to all who suffer."

"Many of my hay-fever friends tell me that by starting to gargle and snuff or spray the nostrils a few times a day the expected severe attack often fails to appear and in cases where it does show up is very mild and does not annoy."

"The Better Class of Pharmacists" who dispense Mentholized Arcine say it will greatly modify any attack even when taken three or four days after hostilities begin.

Go to a real live druggist when you get ready to make a pint.

7 A DAY FOR 7 DAYS

If Your Nerves Are Shaky Because of Over-Indulgence in Tobacco or Alcohol or by Excess of Any Kind, Bio-Feren is What You Need Right Away.

Don't grow old before your time, don't let nervousness wreck your happiness or chances in life. The man with strong, steady nerves is full of vigor, energy, ambition and confidence.

You can have nerves of steel, firm step, new courage and keep mind by putting your blood and nerves in first-class shape with mighty Bio-Feren, a new discovery, inexpensive and efficient.

Men and women who get up so tired in the morning that they have to drag themselves to their daily labor will in just a few days arise with clear mind, definite purpose and loads of ambition.

All you have to do is to take two Bio-Feren tablets after each meal and one at bedtime—7 a day for 7 days—then reduce to one after each meal until all are gone.

Then if your energy and endurance haven't doubled, if your mind isn't keener and eyes brighter, if you don't feel twice as ambitious as before, any druggist anywhere will return the purchase price—gladly and freely.

Bio-Feren is without doubt the grandest remedy for nervous, run-down, weak, anaemic men and women ever offered and is not at all expensive. All druggists in this city and vicinity have a supply on hand—sell many packages.

that 'e's a bloody himpostor!" announced the man truculently. "An' wot's more, we doesn't like the looks of 'im when he comes in—does we, mates? An wot's more—tyke that!" He made a sudden, wicked pass at Wallen's face.

A yell of applause greeted the act. But the blow never reached its mark—Wallen had dealt too long and too intimately with the forecandle not to recognize the breed around him that was the forecandle's curse and the curse of the better men who honored it. With a quick sidestep he evaded the blow, whipped his left in a lightning drive to the other's chin, and, as the man staggered backward into the crowd Wallen leaped for the rear door behind him.

He reached it, but not before they were upon him like a pack of wolves, snarling at him, tearing at him, their breaths in his face, pounding at him, trying to trip him up, to throw him to the floor.

The place was now in pandemonium. Again and again Wallen's clubbed revolver rose and fell, again and again his fist shot in and out and still he kept his feet; but he could not free himself long enough to get the door open—and then something seemed to lend him added passion, added strength.

The face of Drink-House Sam! It was just out of reach—just out of reach.

He flung two men from him and lunged forward. If he could only mark that face! A bellow of fright from Marle greeted the savage onslaught—and Wallen's fist had smashed straight between the red little blinking eyes. The suddenness of the attack brought an instant's pause—and in that instant he had reached the door and this time wrenched it open.

And then Wallen laughed, not pleasantly, and his revolver, not clubbed now, swept the crowd.

"I'll be out here somewhere in the darkness," he told them grimly as he backed away, "and the first man that steps across the threshold I'll drop the way I'd drop a mad dog!"

They stared at him, dogged, sullen, but without a word—until they could no longer see him—and then they answered him with catcalls, hoots, profanity and brave defiance. But no man crossed the threshold.

He moved backward cautiously, making no sound, edging always in a sideways direction—and suddenly, to his own surprise and relief, where he had expected to encounter a fence or some other obstruction, found instead that the rear of Drink-House Sam's gave evidently onto only vacant ground, for he had now come out onto what was either a street or a lane.

But while his escape was now assured, Wallen was in no happy frame of mind. He had yet to square accounts with Drink-House Sam. He had accomplished not only no part of the purpose for which he had come, but had, worse still, probably put the man thoroughly on his guard. But the night was still young and Drink-House Sam was still there!

He was not through with Drink-House Sam yet; the ill luck of his first attempt changed matters not at all; he would never be through with Drink-House Sam until—that murderous sweep of passion was on him again—until he had not only forced the secret out of the other but had paid the score between them as well! And this time he would see to it that the privacy of their interview was of his own making.

Wallen made a wide circuit of the place, which, owing to his ignorance of the neighborhood, in which he lost himself several times, consumed fully half an hour.

But at the expiration of that time he was stealing along the opposite side of the street in front of Drink-House Sam's again; and, grateful now for the dinginess of the surroundings and the absence of lights, slipped into a narrow alleyway, or more properly a space some three feet wide between two buildings facing Drink-House Sam's, and lay down upon the ground.

By and by Drink-House Sam would go to bed, by and by that light in the barroom would go out, by and by the hangers-on would be dispersed, and by and by somewhere in that house he would get Drink-House Sam alone.

Wallen lay there, his eyes on the barroom door across the street. Occasionally someone straggled in, occasionally someone straggled out; but it was many hours, while he grew stiff and cramped, before the place began to empty out—before Drink-House Sam himself at the doorway was ejecting, with some force and more profanity, what appeared to be the last of his guests.

And then the light in the barroom was extinguished.

It was very late; but precisely what time it was Wallen did not know, only that he had lain there for an interminable space. Well, he had waited so long he could afford to wait still another hour—until Drink-House Sam and whoever else was in the place had got to bed and got to sleep. This time he would leave nothing to chance.

A light appeared suddenly in the end room on the veranda over the barroom—and Wallen's lips parted in a twisted smile. Luck again! That was Drink-House Sam's room! The man, silhouetted against the light, was opening the veranda door, for air probably. The room obviously then had two doors, for Marle had entered it from the interior of the house. Wallen smiled again. He would enter from the veranda. Luck was coming now in greater measure than he had dared to hope.

The light in the room went out. The minutes passed, a quarter of an hour, a half, three-quarters—and then Wallen sat up, unlaced his boots and, tying them together with their strings, slung them around his neck.

Like a shadow, a little blacker than the surrounding blackness, he was across the street, and quickly, agilely, silently, was swarming up one of the veranda posts.

He paused as he reached the rail to listen—the rail was old and it had creaked a little, not loudly, but—who knew!—it might have been heard.

There was not a sound.

He swung over onto the veranda and moved cautiously forward. In a moment he was at Marle's door. Again he listened. Nothing—not a sound! Only darkness within, pitch blackness—and he could see nothing.

His face was set now, his jaws hard-clamped. His plan was simple—to choke this human devil into submission before the other could make a sound, to get his fingers first of all upon the ruffian's throat.

He was stealing into the room, feeling before him. He touched the foot of the bed and guided himself along the side of it.

Stealthily, inch by inch, he crept toward the head of the bed, reached it, his hands shot forward, lunging swiftly with the body weight behind them, closed on the man's throat—and the next instant he was staggering backward, a low cry of horror on his lips. His hands were wet—wet with warm blood!

He could not see, but he knew it was blood. Unnerved, shaken to the soul, a panic upon him, he stood there for a moment, his mind in riot. Then, fighting desperately for self-control, he took a match from his pocket and lighted it. He closed his eyes on the sight.

Some one had done the horrible work only too well—the man's throat was only a gaping wound.

The match in Wallen's fingers still burned on, forgotten. He must get out of here. Drink-House Sam's mouth was closed forever.

He could have laughed aloud, hysterically, at the ghastly irony of that. He must get away unseen before—what was that?

There was some one else in the room. Some one moved. The match, in its dying flame, spurted up. A tall, gaunt form loomed before him. That face!

Where had he seen that face?

The match dropped from his fingers. That face! It seemed to be associated with dreams—of long ago. And then a voice spoke:

"Sahib, come quickly."

And then he knew.

It was Gunga.

When to Gather Roots and Herbs.

For medicinal purposes, roots and herbs should be gathered when their medicinal properties are at their best. For instance, roots of annual plants should be dug just before their flowering season, and roots of biennial or perennial plants after the tops have dried. All these things are taken into consideration in gathering the roots and herbs, many tons of which are used annually in preparing that most successful of all remedies for woman's ills, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The Man of The Hour....

You know hm,—at least you have heard about him and you will hear more of him.

He's the sort of fellow who as a young man laid out his scheme of life and followed it through.

During the war he put his money into Liberty bonds instead of squandering it with so-called "good fellows."

He saved his money and is a national asset not a public liability. He is a saver of money, of vitality, of self respect.

He has faith in himself and in his country. He banks on the future. So he knows he must bank in the present.

He saves what he can each week. He saves regularly and watches it grow. He cannot help succeeding because he has the habit of saving systematically.

His savings placed in our savings department bring him 3 per cent. interest. His regular checking account has careful attention at our bank. His valuable papers are absolutely safe in our fireproof, burglar-proof vault.

Let us talk over with you our facilities for handling your banking business as well as his.

A Billion Dollars

A reduction in the guaranteed wheat price that would cost the government $1,000,000,000 would allow a decrease of not more than one cent in the price of a baker's loaf; most of the price of bread is for other things than flour. Use for cheaper and better baking.

Make your own bread—
Save the baker's overhead.

DIAMONDS

JUST PLAIN FACTS

When better Diamonds are sold, price considered, the house of Geo. F. Kamman will sell them.

When lower priced Diamonds are sold we will sell them.

One look at our display may be sufficient to convince you of the advisability of buying from us. We now all realize that Diamonds have not reached the top in price. There is an even greater scarcity of good Diamonds than there was last year. We have on hand a big stock of good Diamonds, bought early, at much less than the market price today. Take our advice: buy now.

A great many people took our advice two years ago and bought Diamonds from us. Ask them today if they want to sell at what they paid for them, plus six per cent. on their investment. If they want to sell direct them to us.

We give you quality that equals the prices, otherwise we could not offer to buy back the Diamonds we sold.
